As an office aid, Scarlett Forsyth undertakes the task of bringing flowers to a student.

A crowd of students leaves from the hallway on their way to lunch.

This clique of girls enjoys eating lunch on the lawn.

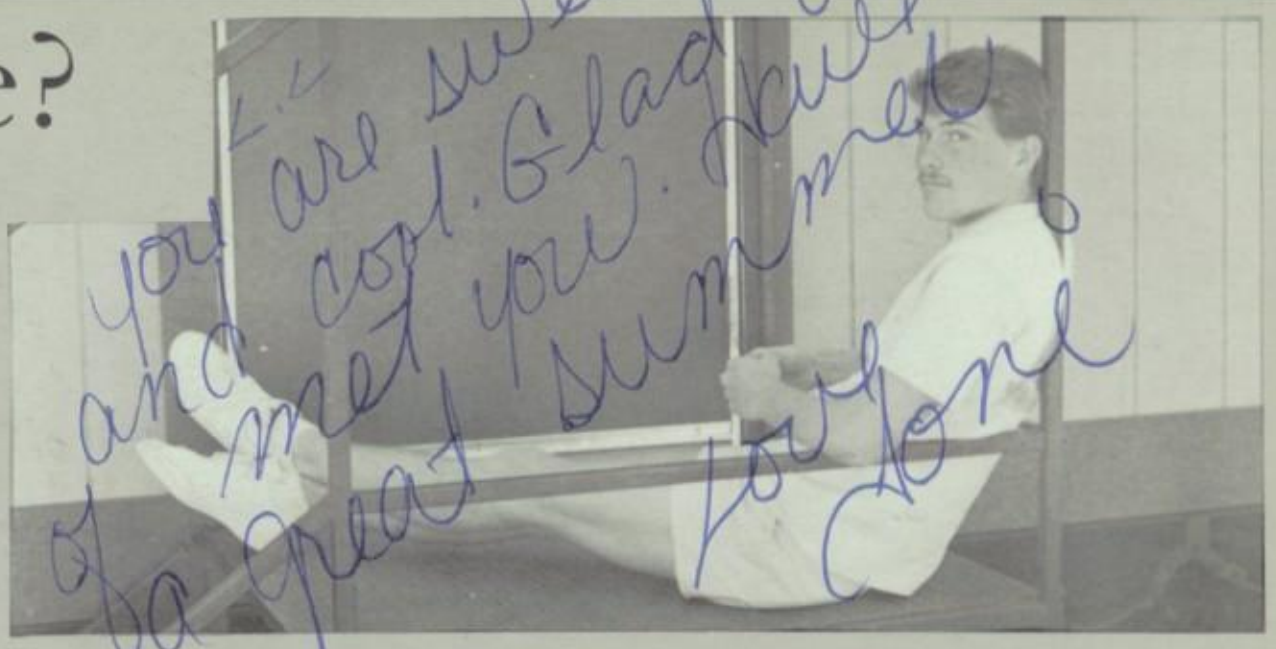
SHS Mascot, Marci Muir, is being strangled by her pet snake.

Seven hours of education can really get a guy feeling down, huh, Shane Reed?

Why Me?

Did you ever keep your best friend out of trouble by taking the blame all by yourself? Did you ever do a favor for someone who forgot to say thank you? Do you ever feel like your peers and other people around you don't recognize the supreme effort you put into your work, or don't realize how much you do for them?

We all have a tendency to become depressed and feel isolated when we are unable to benefit from the rewards of life. This yearbook is dedicated to you for the times when that special person forgot to say hello, for the laughter you bring to others, and for all the smiles you gave. For putting up with Saturday detentions, no-party weekends, thirty minute bus rides home after school, the many secrets that you shared with your pals, the nights you stayed up until two o'clock typing unwanted term papers, and all the little unnoticed things that you do, THIS ONE'S FOR YOU!



Relaxing between classes is Craig Thornhill.

That must be a pretty heavy duffel bag to Ellen Anderson and Donna Zinnser.

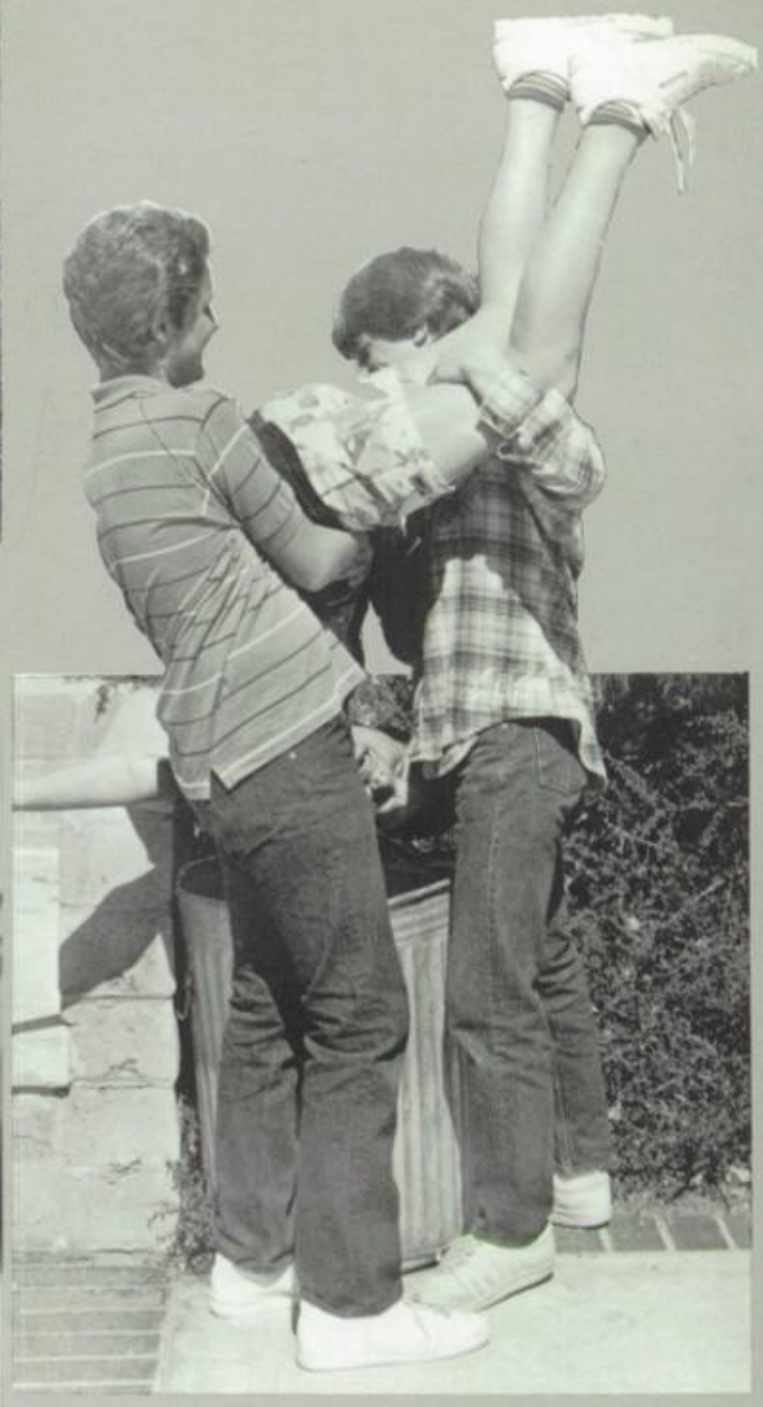
This kid's goal in life is to stay out of garbage cans!



Cool Convo and Lip Lingo

Cassie Fields, Cathy Strickland, Mary Louise O'Brien, Laura Bujjoni, and Bonnie Pierce are emerged in jock talk.

If you could actually hear these students speaking, the topics of their conversations would likely range from music to politics, school to parties, and from literature to the latest fads.

No matter what the subject, there was more than likely a form of ultrahip jargon being used. Here are a few examples:

Rap — to converse
Technicolor Yawn — to vomit
Raging party (rager) — a party that's large and/or great fun.
Generic — anything that's cheap or unattractive
What a rush — WOW!
Mondo — greater than great
Stoked — happy
Chill out — be calm
Bogus — fake
Fully — really
Dude — male gender

What did you like the most about Serrano this year?

Joni Brosnan looks a little dazed and confused.

Carol Pestana (9) Every year keeps getting better and better.
Jeff Phillips (11) The vacations.
Tiffany Stonecipher (10) looking forward to seeing what color or colors the statue was going to be on Monday mornings!

Jennifer Amberg carefully chooses the brush that can get the job done.

Lorse Rapoza and Cameron MacSwain share a few precious moments before the beginning of class.

Jerry Parker helps out by setting up lunch tables in his 4th period teacher's aid class. (Left)

Gwen Bilas (9) Being treated as a high school student.
Vanessa East (7) I liked Serrano because the food is great!
Tabitha McCormick (10) I don't have much longer here, every year is just one more closer to graduation.
Chris Ames (11) Having two free periods in which to do nothing, and taking Piercy which almost makes three free classes.

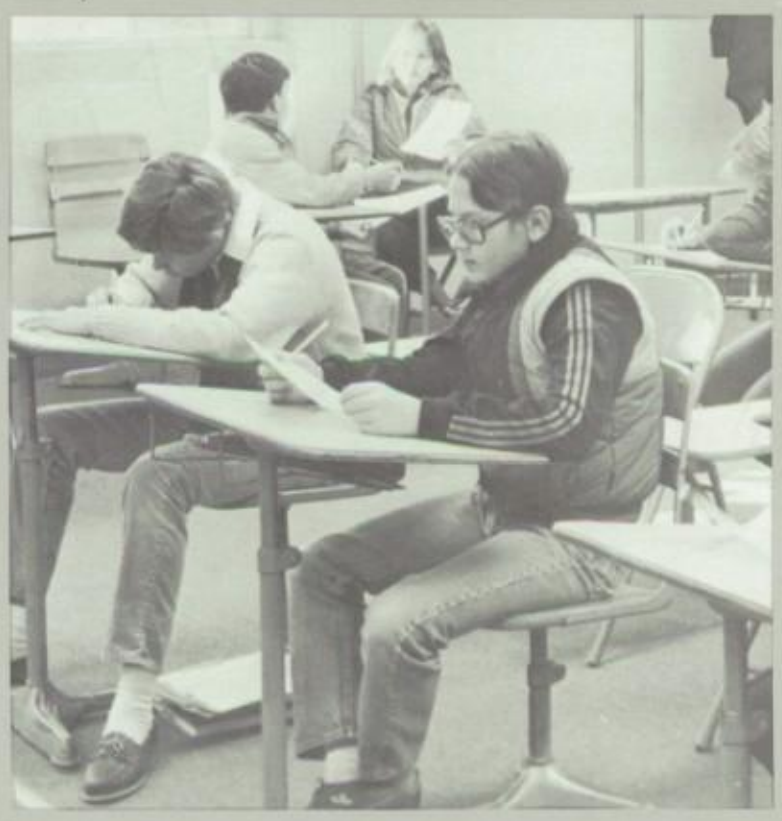
Jeri Lytle gets ready to take notes during one of those helpful group discussions.

John Hemsley gives us a smirk.

These guys enjoy eating cafeteria food.

Darryl Bradley must have spotted a worm crawling out of his apple.

Christine Mock and Randee Ahart seem to have a difference of a opinion.



A younger group of students hard at work.

Jim Smith (9) I liked the thought of one less year in high school.
Christine Bilas (7) I liked how the students painted the statue different colors.
Corrina Chin (12) Senior counseling is excellent, it helped me overcome my fears of going to college.
Chris Reeves (7) I liked the pep rallies.

For All You Do!

by Sande Facinelli

We've gone to school in the wind and snow,
Our athletes have run in the rain.
We try to stay home but we have to go,
Mother Nature can be such a pain!

Some of us drive, some of us walk,
And some just take the bus,
We try to be on time, but no such luck,
Our teachers give a tardy to us!

Listening to lectures, reading and writing,
We all dread hard exams.
When to study? In the night, or in the morning?
Put it off for later, we can always cram!

Day after day, we have to go to school,
Locked bathrooms and halls, dress codes and the discipline crew,
You've lasted this long with the monotony and rule,
For all you've gone through Serrano, THIS ONE'S FOR YOU!

Michael Hagar searches the depths of his locker for a lunch he lost two months ago.

How to Survive

With the impact of Rambo, everyone asked the question, "How to Survive?" The class of '91 was especially interested in this topic. As they started the school year, they armed themselves with various books, pencils and paper.

Rambo's challenge was the jungle. The challenge of the class of '91 was surviving in treacherous battles with the upperclassmen. Their mission was to successfully complete their seventh grade year without getting trash-canned: All did not succeed. Those who did succeed, did so by avoiding the Senior Lawn at all times, waiting for the coast to be clear before they entered the hall, and turning on their inevitable charm when confronted by a threatening upperclassman. These were the basic actions performed by the seventh graders that helped them to survive.

Keeping it Locked Up

Our room away from home where we kept all our belongings was our locker. Our books, lunches, jackets, and everything else was kept in them.

Serrano has had locker problems in the past, but this year they did something about it. They issued some of us new lockers, which were placed on the outside wall of the cafeteria. The new lockers have solved many problems. One problem was the hall overcrowdedness. Those of you who had inside lockers know that the halls were very crowded. Sometimes people would even block the doorways. As a result you were probably late getting to class.

In spite of freezing in the rain, and slipping on ice, outside lockers aren't really that bad. If we happened to forget our books on the way home from school, we could always go back and get them.

You're not writing a note are you, Sheila Audrey?

This is the seventh grade tree, o.k.?

Smiles come from many different sources; a good joke, seeing an old friend, or just looking forward to the day can make cheek muscles flex and a smile form. However, not all smiles are perfect, some need correction. The answer to this problem is braces.

Certain steps are taken in the process of getting braces. X-rays are taken, impressions are made, and before one is aware, braces appear.

However, there are disadvantages to having braces, mostly dealing with food. It is quite difficult to eat certain foods, and it is really embarrassing when some poor kid looks in the mirror and discovers that he's had a particle of bread caught in his braces for the entire day! Eating is not the only problem with braces, some people develop speech problems and tend to "spray" instead of speaking properly. Sore gums and cheeks can also result.

In addition to pain and embarrassment one must also endure various nicknames such as, "Tin Grin", "Railroad Tracks", and "Metal Mouth", but, at the end a perfect smile shows through!

Displaying their braces are Danny Golden, Brad Geertsen, and Stein Peterson.

It was September 7th, 7:30 in the morning. There, all of the sudden it appeared, the ninth grade registration sheet! It was final. The members of the class of '89 had moved one more step up that long educational ladder.

The spirit level at Serrano during the first week of school was very high. Where ever you looked ninth graders could be seen laughing and skipping and just kicking back.

The class of '89 is one of involvement. Ninth graders participated in every event from cheerleading to officers in the ASB. Being the largest class in Serrano's history, '89 is also the loudest. At the pep rallies, the voices of the members of '89 were heard over all others. Yes, it was a rare occasion when '89 didn't win the spirit contests.

Guided by Pres. Danny Bienvenue, V. Pres. Jason Watson, Sec.'s Julie Jeavons and Jennifer Hallenberg, and Tres. Becky Quinn, the class of 89 devastated the entire student body at Serrano by displaying unmeasurable amounts of spirit and pride.

Serrano and Us!

Through the years at Serrano, the class of '89 has been witness to many changes. New buildings and faculty are evidence that the school continued to grow during the 85-86 school year. New grass was also planted making Serrano stand out against its desert background. The class of '89 helped make the '85-86 school year one worth remembering.

To Drive or Not to Drive . . .

That was the question put to the tenth graders this year, as most of them reached the important and honored driving age of sixteen. The class of '88 learned the basic road laws and honed their driving skills. Instructed by Mr. Jean Martin, who has been teaching at Serrano for the past eight years, they learned the fundamental rules of driver and sex education.

Each of these classes was taught one quarter of each semester. To make young drivers aware of some of the possible road hazards, students viewed such films as Broken Glass, Red Asphalt, and None for the Road. The movies were beneficial to the students because they stressed the importance of wearing seat belts.

Sex education was also part of the tenth grade year. The class was supposed to teach students about where babies come from and to impress upon them the dos and don'ts of sex, and emotional changes that one might go through while growing up. Also covered was the topic of sexually transmitted diseases.

When questioned about the class of '88, Mr. Martin replied, "The tenth grade class is the greatest class in the world because they are the easiest to get along with." Martin enjoys teaching Drivers Ed. and Sex Ed. because they are subjects that will "help" the students throughout their lives." He also wants students to "remember I.P.D.E. (identify, predict, decide and execute!")

This is the one we've all been waiting for; we finally made it through the eleventh grade.

Through pain and tears we've all suffered a little, but with the help of our friends we've made it together.

We've had our good times, we've had our rough times, but all in all they've been the best times of our lives.

We shall never forget the people, the learning, the laughter, and the warmth of experience that we've all grown to cherish.

For those who say they hate it, they'll come back next year and find it's their last.

So let's make the best of what we have left, and live each day as if it were tomorrow.

FRIENDS
By: Stephanie Mannigel

There is no one more special,
no one more caring or understanding.
They are the people we see, walk by us everyday.
With a simple wave of a hand or a smile,
you know they are yours to keep.
They are sometimes taken for granted,
but when all is said and done:
They remain!
These special people are the one's we call friends.

A Class Ready to Face the Future!

Most seniors experience many mixed feelings about graduating from high school. It's a time of big decisions and confusion. The following survey shows what the majority of Serrano's graduates are planning to do with themselves now that the security of high school is behind them.

	YES	NO
Are you planning on attending a four year college or University?	54%	45%
Are you planning on attending a two year college?	50%	50%
Are you planning on attending a vocational or trade school?	25%	75%
Will you be living in the tri-community?	44%	55%
Will you be living with your parent's or family?	28%	71%
Do you want to marry and start a family right away?	41%	58%
Are you planning on getting a house or apartment alone or with friends?	86%	32%
Are you going to get a job?	93%	7%
Are you going to take some time off in which you will do nothing but think about doing one of the above?	41%	59%

Decison Time

Senior class officers assume an authoritative stance. President Sean Farrell, Secretary Kim Bruton, Sargeant at Arms Troy Elliot, and Treasurer Mike Miller.

Decisions . . . Should I go to college? Which one? No, maybe I'll just get a job. Where? I know! I'll get married and start a family. To whom? Forget it; I need a break. I'll just take a couple years off!

A very busy schedule is inevitable to every college-bound Senior. There are the overwhelming scholarship files, the deadlines, forms to be filled out, and, of course, money-application fees, mailing receipts, xerox copies, processing fees and tests, tests, tests. The SAT, ACT, Achievements tests and more. They all cost bucks. Some seniors have to score fairly high in order to be accepted at the college of their choice. Oh, the stress!

For the senior not going to college it may seem easy, but it's not. There's still many questions to be answered. For example where to live? Getting a job if so where? Also, for some, getting married and starting a family is what the future holds. Still stress!

As one can see being a Senior is not all just fun and games, as a matter of fact it's very stressful and kind of scary.

One of the most popular items sported by the seniors this year, was the spirited blue and gold letterman's jacket. In order to be able to purchase a letterman's jacket one had to receive a varsity letter in any sport, including cheerleading. These jackets were proven to be fairly expensive, costs including the jacket itself, embroidery and dry cleaning. Although the style of each jacket was uniform, the embroidery design chosen by each athlete showed true individuality. Examples of different designs ranged from football players in action to cheering pep leaders.

A COMMON ILLNESS

Senioritis!

Have you ever felt like you just couldn't get up early enough to make it to first period, and you found yourself either coming to school before lunch or not coming at all? Well if you had ever experienced any of these symptoms you were encountering "Senioritis." A psychosomatic illness which hits Seniors suddenly in the month of September. It's an illness that affects their ability and desire to perform the regular High School routine.

After experiencing twelve years of school they feel almost free. Just when they thought they were finally finished they realized they had to make decisions for the future. Many plans included applying for college, finding jobs or even settling down.

If you knew of someone who had experienced this illness or did so yourself, you may have noticed these symptoms: Laziness, irritableness, sloppiness or a desperate feeling of confusion. It has been scientifically proven that the best cure for "Senioritis" is to just wait it out.

As the advisor to the senior class, Mr. Piercy is in charge of Baccalaureate, grad night, and the commencement exercises. He teaches government, economics, and psychology as well as coaching Serrano's wrestling team. Termed the "best-dressed man on campus", he dazzles all with his three-piece suits, except during sixth period when he can be seen sporting his official coaching sweats.

With all of his energy put into teaching Mr. Piercy still finds time to create a special relationship with the seniors.

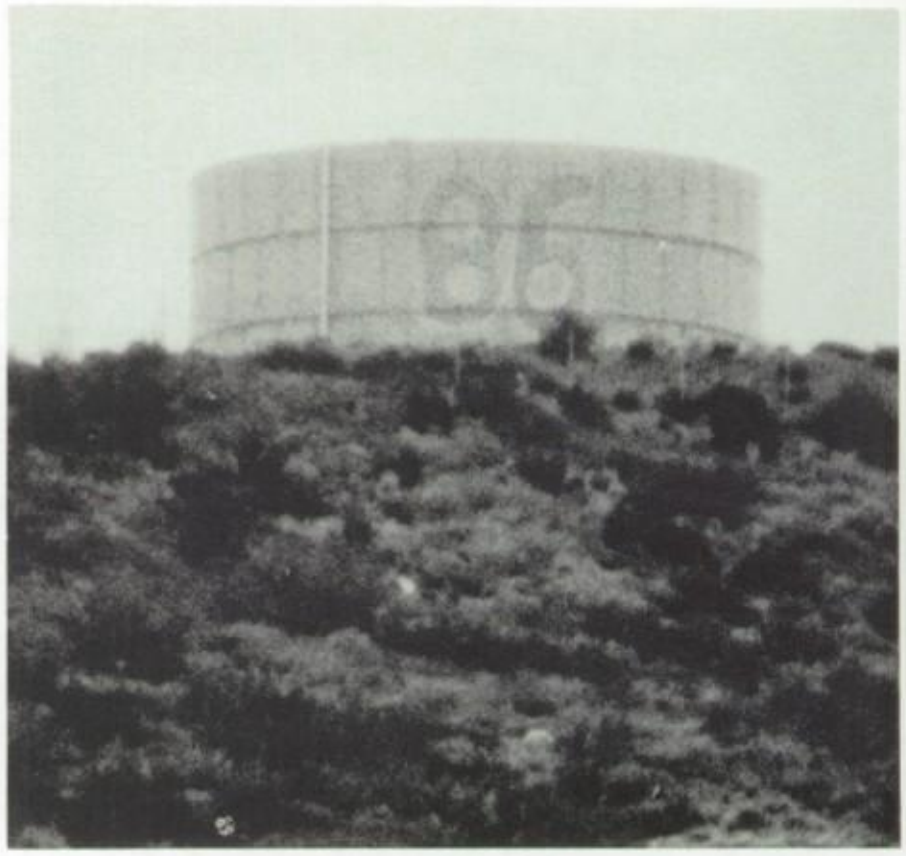
Painting the Tank

A Senior Tradition

If there's a tradition that the Seniors will not let die, it's the annual "Painting of the Tank." Past senior classes at Serrano have organized painting crews and climbed up to that great water tank in the sky. The purpose? To emblazen their year of graduation in huge blue and gold numbers for all of Phelan to observe.

The class of 1986 was no different. Paint was bought, workers were organized, and the tank was promptly changed from last year's 85 to a brilliant 86! Although the owners of the tank have complained in the past, they seem to have resigned themselves to the fact that Serrano's Seniors will not be dissuaded.!



The infamous Phelan Tank now displays the mark of 86.

On the Road Again

Of the many modes of transportation, most of the seniors indulged in independent driving. The parking lot always seemed to be full of those automobiles owned by fortunate seniors. Ranging from sleek Mustangs to old clunkers to hot rods to all purpose autos that can successfully get a person where he wants to go. No matter what style of a car was driven there was always the problem of added costs. Although wink mirrors, new upholstery and paint jobs weren't required, gas was a daily cost that was a necessity. Other expenses imposed on some drivers were insurance and maintenance.

While some students got to school by borrowing their parent's cars, others hitched a ride, rode the bus, walked or were dropped off by a parent or neighbor. In the high desert it is evident that outside transportation is a necessity for those who wish to travel to nearby entertainment spots.

Leadership
A.S.B.

What keeps Serrano running so smoothly? With clubs, fund-raisers and other official business stuff? It's the Associated Student Body, or the A.S.B.

Mr. Martin is the Director of Activities for the A.S.B., and Sherry Downer is A.S.B. Secretary. Along with a staff of elected students that changes annually, they manage to keep track of incoming and out going funds at Serrano. They also have a part in all extracurricular activities here, such as dances, fundraisers, clubs, games, etc.

Yes, the A.S.B. office is truly an integral part of the vast and complex mechanism that is Serrano.

Serving the school with their leadership qualities were: Matt Kallinger, President; Jennifer Jeavons, Vice President; Jim Bell, Secretary; and Scott Quarton, Treasurer.

Club Life at SHS

Computer Club

This is a highly technological club which spends most of its time in front of computers in the lab, advised by Mrs. Mannigel. Members learn how to program and play games with the computer. The Computer Club holds a yearly raffle to raise funds for computer accessories.

Maranatha Club

Maranatha is the religious club on campus to spread Christian faith and mostly have fun. Members include students from grades seven through twelve. The club held several free rock concerts during the year that were open to the entire student body as well as family and friends.

The computer lab is always full of young minds yearning to learn about computers.

Future Farmers of America is taught by Mrs. Forsberg. The members of this club raise animals to show in fairs and later sell for a profit. They also grow various types of plants for agricultural experience. For the second year in a row, F.F.A. organized the club competitions that provided entertainment for many students.

Block S

The Block S Club is for any athlete who has lettered in a varsity sport. Under the supervision of Mr. Burleson, the Block S had several fundraisers this year, including an after-game dance and selling plastic tumblers.

Future Business Leaders

This club was new this year at Serrano and it was a definite success. The members met to discuss better business techiques and to help with their communication skills. Club members participated in a type-a-thon.

C.S.F. and C.J.S.F.

The California Scholastic Federation and the California Junior Scholastic Federation are clubs with members that have high grade point averages. One must have at least three A's and one B on the semester report card to be a member. The club, and new sponsor, Mr. Holleran, organized a tutorial service for fellow Serrano students this year.

DONKEY BASKETBALL
SPILLS AND THRILLS

Another year has gone by, and that meant another game between the Lion's Club, teachers, and students with the funfilled, laughs, spills, and thrills of Donkey Basketball. The Lion's Club took the victory, but they had to work hard for it. The students who played, were spirited, they clashed their clothes, wore funny hats and happily tried to persuade the stubborn donkies. The Serrano stands were full of spectators that cheered for both sides and laughed at the stubborn donkeys and their foolish riders.

Midas
A Learning Experience!

Midas was an extracurricular activity that enabled students to know a part of life they may have never known.

It let them travel with Pip through the dark swamp in Great Expectations. They balanced with ten Peking Arobats who could twirl ten plates at a time and form intricate pyramids with their bodies. It let them feel the warmth and joy that can be experienced by watching the ballet, Billy the Kid. Midas was funded to enrich the knowledge of Serrano students.

Corina Chin and Ellen Anderson are emerged in a discussion about Great Expectations. The play was performed at Claremont College.

Speech/Drama

Heroes and Heroines!

Before you are able to become a hero or heroine in drama, you must complete a semester in speech class taught by Mr. Ray Brown. Once in the speech class you will travel to many competitions, where students compete against one another and with speakers from other schools. They are judged by the context of their speech, expression, delivery and poise.

After the first semester students move into the drama class, also taught by Mr. Brown. The Drama Class puts on an annual school play. The play this year was Arsenic and Old Lace.

Acting requires many talents, such as voice control, body language, and free emotions. Dan Adams and Lynnie Horrigan use their resources.

Crafty People

Home Economics and Home Arts and Crafts are two very helpful classes to have as a teenager. They are beneficial to both boys and girls who enroll in them. In "Home Ec." students learned simple cooking skills such as making breakfast. The advanced cooking classes learned how to make lunches and plan healthy meals, read and prepare recipes, and learn proper nutrition. Mrs. Gehrke said the biggest problem with teaching cooking is that her feet get tired and she has to make sure there's enough food for all the classes for the whole week. Home Arts and Crafts teaches homecrafts such as needlepoint, latchhook, pillows and sewing.

Artistic People

Industrial Arts and Art are two classes that help students develop their artistic talents. Industrial Arts, taught by Mr. Pambianco, taught students safe use of power and hand tools. In this class, students worked with thermosetting plastics to make various projects such as keychains and letter openers. They also worked with wood making planters, learning to cut, plane, and sand the wood.

Art, taught by Miss Balik, is also a very helpful class. Students learned basic art techniques such as shading and perspecive. They used caligraphy pens, water colors and pastels. In Advanced Art, students learned about art history and how to paint things in still life and in perspective. The art students made 150 toys for tots before Christmas vacation. These toys were given to underprivileged children for Christmas. The Advanced Art students displayed their works in model homes on Bear Valley Cutoff.

MAKING HEADLINES
RATTLER TATTLER

The Serrano newspaper, otherwise known as the Rattler Tattler, gave you funfilled information, polls and many other exciting news throughout the past year.

The staff worked hard every month to give the students of Serrano the Rattler Tattler. They interviewed the students who had achieved high awards, took polls from the students, to see what was hot and what was not, and they interviewed faculty, to see what new ideas were in and what old ideas were out.

PUTTING IT TOGETHER
MIRAGES YEARBOOK

Gwen Bilas knows her stuff.

Never without a smile, Chris Winkler.

Editor Leslie Huiner takes time out to help coworker, Julie Jeavons.

The yearbook had a new and exciting format, due to our editor, Leslie Huiner, and the staff artist, Tina Morrison. They both went to yearbook camp at the University of Santa Barbara to broaden their, and the staff's, knowledge of yearbook creation.

The theme of the ninth annual printing of the Mirages Yearbook was "This One's For You." The staff was always spunky and developed new ideas from section to section.

Members of the yearbook staff share some ideas.

Advanced Placement Classes

Advanced Placement Classes propose many challenges and opportunities for the students who take them. The students who enroll in these classes find them educationally uplifting and at the same time mentally and physically demanding. A.P. classes are extended studies in a certain area; students research, learn, and cram their minds with knowledge from September until May, when a very important special exam is given.

A.P. courses are college level classes and credit is given on a 5.0 system, rather than the normal 4.0 grading scale. A.P. students must excel in a specific field of study and must be ready to face a strong challenge. Offered for the second year at SHS are United States History taught by Ray Brown, and English Literature and Composition taught by Joan Carter. An A.P Spanish Class was installed this year and taught by Connie Vargas.

Students take the A.P. test in May and are questioned on all aspects of their subject matter. At a cost of fourty-nine dollars, the A.P. tests may seem harsh. But for those students fully prepared with an abundance of knowledge the rewards are very satisfying. The grading scale ranges from zero to five (the highest possible score being five), and students who achieve a three or better will receive college credits for their accomplishments.

Therefore, the benefits that can be acquired by enrolling in an Advanced Placement Class outweigh the sometimes very frustrating and mind-boggling work that has to be done. A.P. students gain experience and knowledge that will benefit them throughout their college years.

Outstanding Students

A Committment to Excellence!

Imagine getting a 4.0 grade point average for two consecutive semesters! This "mission impossible" was accomplished by twelve students. The student body recognizes the hard work and dedication of the students. In addition to having some very challenging classes, some were also heavily involved in extra curricular activities. This page is dedicated to twelve outstanding Diamondbacks for their accomplishments and positive contribution.

REGIONAL OCCUPATIONAL PROGRAM

Four R.O.P. classes were held during this year; Fire Science, Dept. Store Sales, Heavy Equipment and Winter Resort. R.O.P. is a good opportunity for students to earn school credits while gaining practical experience in different types of jobs. Classes are conducted off campus either during or after regular school hours. R.O.P. is under the direction of Mrs. Gehrke, who makes sure everything is in order.

WORKING CLASS KIDS

The luckier students around the Tri-Community Area are the working ones. Since jobs aren't very abundant and transportation is a must, (no buses, metro's or trains, etc.), the working student must have his own means of transportation. For those students who worked at the local ski hills and rental shops, it was a short season due to the lack of snow. For the majority of the students it will be difficult in future years to get a job, because of the lack of transportation and limited opportunities (stores, gas stations, and restaurants).

Band Takes Honors

The Serrano High marching band has had it's largest turnout ever. Seventy-nine students were out for the squad. The band did very well competing in numerous parades and competitions. The band received invitations to play at Disneyland, and Knott's Berry Farm, which are great honors for both Serrano and the band. The band was instructed by Mr. Toms, this was his third year with the band. For the second year we had flag girls, these girls compete alongside the band in the various competitions and parades. People in the band for two years receive a varsity letter for their participation. The band bought special letter jackets to display their letters on. Band had special fundraisers that made over two-thousand dollars, the money was used to pay for buses and special entrance fees into parades.

Hut, Hut, Ho!

The new Serrano drill team, in it's first year of competition, did very well to make the Serrano students proud. Members of the drill team found it took a lot of hard work, and long hours of practice to be successful. While in competition the movements had to be sharp and precise in order for the whole group to be in syncopation.

The team practiced for two hours after school two days a week. Activities in which the drill team competed were the Band festival, Disneyland, and numerous parades, including the Hesperia parade in which they placed third.

Sing-a-Long!

Finally, Serrano has it's own chorus! They are called the Mellowtones. Mr. Toms organized the group and has directed them throughout the year. Although this was only their first year, the Mellowtones have grown to be fine performers and have accomplished a lot. They could be heard at many school functions as well as outside local performances.

Fads and Fashions '86

Trend Setters

Every year there is a different fad and fashion. Trendy people make them popular, and soon everyone is wearing or doing the same thing. Levi jackets were very popular, and the "layered look" was still around. It seemed this year that there was a big emphasis on design. Everything was covered with floral, paisley, and plaid prints. Silk replicas were definitely "in." Stirrup pants were also popular when worn with a big shirt and accesorized with a broach.

As far as food goes, Coca-Cola announced a new break through, by adding cherry flavoring to their coke, and ingeniously naming it "Cherry Coke." It was a very popular drink.

With the recent dance craze, Serrano students were jazzed to know that a new dance club was opening in Victorville. Its location was very close to the popular movie theater which added convenience and a choice. Kids from all around flocked there to hear the latest sounds and perform popular dance moves. It soon became a really happening spot.

Something new this year was added to the regular, run of the mill, television shows — The Cosby Show. Along with Family Ties, and MTV, it kept Serrano students entranced by multi-spectored rays for hours on end. Popular movies this year included The Color Purple, Back to the Future, Rambo, and A Nightmare on Elm Street, parts I and II!

The Spirit of '86!

Talk about spirit! Serrano High School is infamous for it's outstanding participation in various activities. The students showed great spirit during Spirit Week, when we dressed up as different things — ranging from African Safari leaders to non-violent gangster.

And although they numbered few, Pep Assemblies were also popular with the students. It was a thrill, especially for the underclassmen, to compete against the older people, and sometimes add a victory to their class roster.

Dances were a great deal of fun, providing the only local weekend entertainment. The theme dances were well attended, as well as the after basketball game dances that were held on Friday nights.

Halloween provided a great time, when the students could outrageously dress up as whatever they wanted. During this festive day, the ASB went around in the outstanding search for the best costume, which has been awarded to Cassie Cummings the past two years for her ingenuity in inventing winning outfits.

All in all Serrano was very proud of their school spirit. There were many great times and memories that were shared throughout the year.

My Night as Queen!!

By: Debbie Quinn

Reflecting back on Christmases past revive fond memories of Santa Claus, presents, and of course, the Christmas Dance. This past year's Christmas Dance is a fond memory for me, not only because of my involvement, but, also, because of new traditions established.

The female Christmas Court consisted of Inga Tschantre, Kathy Snow, Kim Bruton, Dina Piazza, and myself. The male court involved Troy Elliott, Sean Farrell, Darrell Bradley, Mike Nelson, and Ed Thomas. During the week of the dance, the girls showed Christmas spirit by dressing up as reindeer, presents, elves, and Christmas trees.

The dance was creatively decorated — an ice skating pond and a stocking-lined fireplace added to the usual Christmas decor. Serrano was graced with its first real video dance — a 15 x 15 foot screen played hip tunes. The screen was also used for the crowning of King, Troy Elliot and Queen, Debbie Quinn. Popular opinion recorded, this dance among Serrano's very best.

Moonlight and Roses

Homecoming was an exciting event this year. The entire week was full of class competitions and other fun-filled activities. Jennifer Jeavons, Lori Muir, Sandy Stigile, Veronica Thomas, and Michelle Wharton, the 1985 Homecoming Court, dressed up according to themes set by the A.S.B. office.

On October 26, the Diamondback Football Team played two hard fought games against San Jacinto. At halftime of the varsity game the Homecoming Parade took place. Various clubs and classes participated by making and riding on floats representing the different holidays. The members of the Homecoming Court were driven up to a platform and presented to the crowd. A medieval knight in shining armor rode up on a white horse and presented a sealed envelope, containing the name of the queen, to the student body secretary, Jim Bell, who then announced the 1985 Homecoming Queen, Jennifer Jeavons.

The grand finale, the Homecoming Dance, took place that evening in the Serrano cafeteria. The theme of the dance was Moonlight and Roses. The Homecoming Court made an appearance, as well as several alumni. Altogether, a good time was had by all, and some very happy memories were made.

Junior High Students Tell All!

What I like most about Serrano . . .

I like the food.
I like people who are really spirited.
I like the new lockers.
I like the bright colors on the statue.
I like the dances.
I like the clean school.
I like the snow days.
I like the two weeks vacation at Easter.
I like the boys and girls.
I like the teachers and staff.

The morning rush to class.

Now what in the world are you looking at?

What I like least about Serrano . . .

I dislike the fact that all the tall people get bottom lockers.
I dislike that sometimes 1st period P.E. classes have to go outside on cold and ugly days.
I don't like the lunch lines because they are too long.
I don't like going to school at 7:30 a.m.
I dislike the bathrooms being closed during classes.
I dislike not being able to bring guests to the dances.
I dislike the fact that there aren't enough trees and bushes.
I dislike the fact that there isn't enough time to get to classes.
I dislike the high cost of getting into dances.
I dislike that there is no way home from detention and that there is no outside phone.
I dislike the fact that we have 7th-12th graders.

"Was it really that funny?"

Laurie,
I'm glad we're friends, you're a really neato-bumitto person. I'll probably see you over the summer but have a good one! Don't fall off a cliff! Seeya!

Blue Moon

Not often do young people have the opportunity to dress up in formal attire, but Serrano's seventh and eighth graders were lucky enough to have their own semi-formal dance. Held on February 21, it was entitled "Blue Moon" and was a complete success. A disc jockey provided popular, top-forty music for dancing enjoyment. The cafeteria was creatively decorated with balloons, streamers, flowers, and a memory wall, which held pictures of past dances and junior high activities. Most students brought cookies and other goodies for refreshments.

Some seventh graders commented on the dance.

Beverly Schmoe — "I loved the memory wall because I could see what happened in the past at Serrano."

Janiece Blaine — "The disc jockey was cool."

Christina Basham — "The Blue Moon dance we had was very good; the disc jockey was really exciting; the lighting was great; and the music was super."

Craig Caskey — "The disc jockey was great; he had excellent music."

During a "Skills for Adolescence" class the seventh graders went through a Drug Prevention Program.

Jr. Efforts

Since Serrano is a school that combines high school and junior high students, many diversified activities affect both groups. Constantly being with older students is very valuable to most seventh and eighth graders because it gives them an insight into growing up and high school life.

The junior high students at Serrano tend to be very enthusiastic and thus spirit shows greatly in fundraising efforts. This year they participated in selling magazines, posters, candy bars, message suckers, and gift checks to raise money for a year end trip to Magic Mountain.

A very special and prestigous club for seventh and eighth graders is the California Junior Scholastic Federation. This group sponsors the annual Teacher Appreciation Day which is worthwhile for both students and teachers. Because the junior high students are not allowed to participate in the De Anza League sports at Serrano, they are given the opportunity to play after school intramurals. The highlight of the year for many students was the semiformal, entitled "Blue Moon."

OVERCROWDING — A Solution!

Around 1800 student feet roamed Serrano's mighty campus in 1986.

Although many portables have been added to the campus to accommodate the large number of students, overcrowding was a major problem existing at Serrano.

Because there were so many students in our constantly growing community, a definite need for another school was established. Unlike most high schools, Serrano was the learning facility for seventh through twelfth graders.

The flood of so many feet on campus caused many problems to both the students and teachers; with as many as thirty-five students per class, not all were furnished with desks.

Lockers were jammed with books, because some were forced to house three of four students instead of one. Lunch lines were like a zoo. The wait to get food took twenty five of the thirty minutes of lunch. Those who had classes in the hallway were late sometimes, because of the mob of people who could only shuffle through the crowds.

The answer to the problem of overcrowding is the new Pinon Mesa Middle School, which will be completed by the fall of 1986. In September 1986 there will be approximately 370 students occupying this new school. Mr. Womack, the principal, estimates the cost of the building to be 3.98 million dollars. Serrano's Ron Robbins will serve as the Pinon Mesa counselor.

"I think the addition of the middle school to our education system is something that a lot of people have looked forward to for a long time and it will be an asset to our Snowline district," commented Mr. Womack.

Because of overcrowding, portables have been added to Serranos campus.

"What Have The Students Taught You?"

A question that is not frequently asked among the teachers is, "What have the students taught you?" But, in fact, this is a very important question that deals with learning. Of course, the students learn from the teachers, but what have the teachers learned from the students?

The majority of the teachers said that the students taught them patience and tolerance. Some other ideas that were said were, "How to stay young," "How to laugh at yourself," "Flexibility," and even "Not to take yourself too seriously."

Indeed, it is obvious that teachers actually do learn from students. A special relationship is shared between the teachers and students; this feeling of caring and determination is what makes Serrano High School what it is.

"What Makes Your Day?"

Everybody has a certain something that makes his day. Although all are different and unique, they're truly special to each person. It can be as simple as a hello or a smile, that makes somebody happy. Others can be related to activities such as attending a Serrano High School football game or helping a student.

Most teachers agree that "what makes their day, is when a student's "lightbulb of understanding" clicks on, or when the staff is able to, in some way, help the student gain knowledge and a good feeling of accomplishment.

Also the time when the bell rings, and I'm sure the students would agree, is what can really "make your day."

"Lounging Around"

This year to the surprise and thanks of many teachers, Serrano set up a new portable teachers' lounge.

Not only was it a new relaxing place for our hardworking teachers; it was equipped with a soft cushion couch and two chairs. It also served as a work place for teachers whose work was never done. Typewriters, a thermofax, and ditto machines lined the walls.

The lounge was a great place for the faculty to socialize with people of their own age and maturity level and to deliberate over the goings on of the school days.

If only to get away for a few minutes, it was a great place to take a break from the monotonous days of the year.

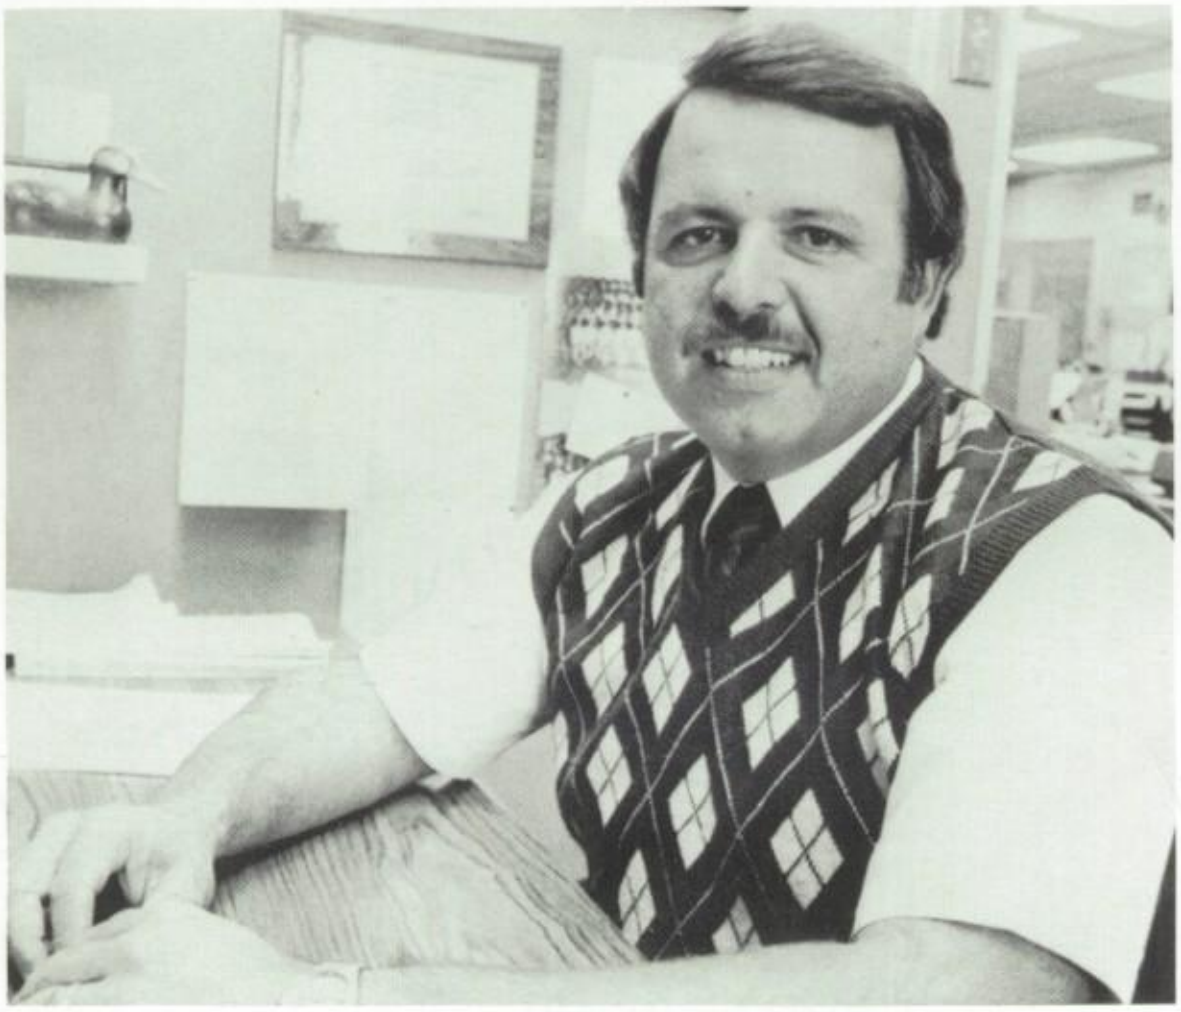
Principal's Message



Principal Dr. Art Golden

A yearbook is more than printed pages, clever sayings, and photographs. It is, in a very real sense, a record of memories — your memories — the memories you hold both individually and in common as students at Serrano High School. It is my sincere hope as well as the hope of the faculty and administration that those memories are pleasant ones, ones which you will cherish throughout your life. It is our hope that your days here at Serrano High have been enjoyable as well as filled with learning and growth. You have received an education that will serve you well throughout your lives, and the memories within these pages will serve you in those quiet moments when you turn in your thoughts back to your days spent with us.

On behalf of the faculty and administration, I wish you health, happiness, and success throughout your lives.

Mrs. Vondra and Mr. Golden are truly buddies.

CHAD GREGORY — I would be the Refrigerator so I'd always stay cool!

MARY LOUISE O'BRIEN — Lynnette Woodard. She's the first female to play on a man's pro-basketball team and she's really rad!!

ROSS NISLY — It would have to be Mike Singletary because he's so huge and buff and can plow through anybody except "The Fridge."

JENNIFER JEAVONS — Dorothy Hammil because she set the trend for a bowl haircut.

TODD ESPINDOLA — Doug Flutie. He has a contract to be a multi-millionaire whether he plays or not.

LAURA BUJJONI — Spud Webb because he's rad. There's absolutely nothing wrong with shortness!!

JIM BELL — Hulk Hogan. I admire anyone that is paid so royally to be a jerk and still be respected.(?)

Jennifer Hallenberg cheers the team to victory.

Jennifer Hallenberg, Tiffany Stonecipher, and Julie Jeavons say go!

This year's Frosh/Soph pep squad impressed all of the student body with their enthusiasm and determination to make Serrano the proudest school around. These six young ladies worked very hard to cheer and support their teams. Never before had any squad been so devoted to attending and cheering at almost every game.

This past summer the squad had the opportunity to attend a cheerleading camp where they learned some of their own cheers and song routines that they changed and perfected. This young squad had many new ideas in promoting spirit. Besides practicing and performing they were very active and helpful in the various fundraisers the pep squad had.

This year's squad was the first Frosh/Soph squad that was able to attend away football games. They were not allowed to attend the away basketball games, but that didn't dampen their spirits. They were just that more peppier at the home games.

Jennifer Jeavons entertaining the spirited crowd at a basketball game.

This year's 1985-86 Varsity Pep Squad had a new edition — a mascot. The mascot's job was to get the crowd more involved with the cheers the pep squad tried to lead. Along with the different uniform, the mascot wore a blue and gold glittered snake puppet which helped promote spirit for the Diamondbacks. These spirited gals again were under the direction of Mrs. Sharon Schlegel. Her duties were going along with the girls in August to Santa Barbara for their cheerleading camp. While at camp they learned various song routines and cheers that they perfected and performed for the students at football games, basketball games and pep assemblies. The pep assemblies were not only for the cheerleaders to perform but for the various teams to be introduced and the classes to be involved with the class competitions.

Besides practicing and performing several routines they were also very active in fund raisers. They were involved with a Valentine's Day sucker sale, a dance and a Cupid Dating Sheet. It seems to be a tradition for the squad to begin each year in debt, but with hard work and energy they rebuild their funds. This year's squad had a lot of fun trying to make Serrano the most spirited school it could be.

Frosh/Soph Football

The spirited frosh-soph team on the way to victory.

This past year's 1985/86 frosh/soph football team strived hard in their performance. This team's work showed that they will be great future players for varsity. The players showed many successes other than on the scoreboards. They showed spirit, that they would never give up, and most importantly that they worked well together as a team.

Behind the team this past year were coaches: Piersall, McReynolds and Dalin (Sam). One of the fondest memories of the team was the dreadful task of the SNAKE — It's when you run and leap over your teammates and at the end you drop and lie there 'til it's your turn again.

Varsity Football

This past year 1985/86 varsity football team did well in their second year of the DeAnza League.
It took many hours of practice, weights and watching films of past games. But when they had to play they pulled together as a team. The team had spirit, pride and, most of all, they had team work; so when the games got tough, the team got going.
Behind the team's successes and advancements were coaches: Wieberg, Hull, Kavanaugh and Ries.

One Foot in Front of the Other!

Cross Country isn't the easiest sport in the world, but, with self motivation and the will to win, Serrano Cross Country strived to be the best. The Cross Country team tried hard to make it big — better than last year said some.

Winning the first meet set them off to a good start and lifted the team spirit. To build its stamina, the team ran up to 11 miles everyday. Meets were held up to twice a week, with the competitive course consisting of three miles up and over hills, down straights and around corners. The top time for completing the home course was set by David Kordyak. His time was 18 minutes, 3 seconds. The main computers in the De Anza League were Sherman Indian Perimial, 29 Palms, and Beaumont, who were the CIF champs. Cross Country was made a big success by the illustrious coach, Mr. Holleran, who has led Cross Country at Serrano for the past two years. By combining sensibility, a bit of humor, and a stern leadership, Coach Holleran helped the players learn the values of working as a team.

Becky Quinn goes low to try to get around two opposing teammates.

The whole team listens carefully to the instructions of Mr. Piersall.

With lots of practice and the superb coaching of Mr. Piersall, the girls frosh/soph team of 85-86 tried to make it the best season ever. Although many games were lost by very few points, the team kept the Serrano spirit and it carried them through the season. Coach Piersall with his brilliant coaching and his "eagle eyes" caught every mistake. There were very few injuries during the season thanks to the skill and awareness of the players. The over excitement of action in the game sometimes led to personal play of the ball neglecting the great importance of team work, which was greatly stressed by Coach Piersall. The players practiced everyday during sixth period which took the place of normal P.E. Before the season began the players even went to school an hour early everyday to get in as much practice as possible. It all paid off in the end as the players in action looked like professionals!

Teresa Barber getting ready to make a score for the Serrano team.

The girls Vasity Basketball had a good season in 85/86. Getting off to a good start helped carry them through the season. They placed third in the tournament at the beginning of the season. Illnesses plagued the team. "We rarely had a full squad" replied Mr. Holleran when asked about the team. The tallest player on the team was Kim Wahl at a height of 5'11" inches; the Serrano basketball teams have had a history of not growing to the great heights of the competition.

A lot of the credit can be given to Coach Holleran. Mr. Holleran has disciplined and worked the girls hard to develop the best team possible.

The season was quick and exciting. The girls held high spirits and school pride throughout the season.

Making Baskets!

Is the Frosh/Soph team huddling to hear a game plan — or gossip?

The 1986 Frosh/Soph boys basketball team finished the season with a four win, ten loss De Anza League record under the leadership of Coach Mike Roberts. One player commented that this year's team had a lot of spirit and experienced many happy times. He stated that the high point of the season was the win over Aquinas.

Shannon Fry provided height for the team at six feet three inches. Scoring the most points and fighting for the highest number of rebounds was sophomore forward Tony Andrews. The team as a whole made a great effort to make the season as fun as possible.

The 1986 boys basketball team competed in the DeAnza league for only the second year. The smaller, height wise Diamondbacks held their own playing against the much bigger DeAnza league schools. The team competed in both the Beaumont and Serrano tournaments, placing second in the latter.

Mostly the team was led by seniors, but only had three returning letterman. Leading the Diamondbacks in the scoring column were senior guard Ed Thomas and sophomore guard T.K. Kempf. In rebounding the team was led by third year letterman, senior center Mike Nelson.

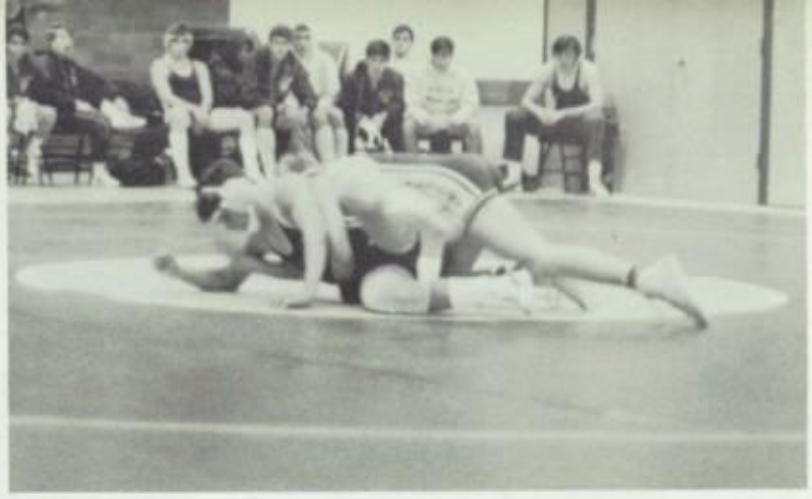
Hitting the Mat

Serrano's wrestling team stretching out before a big match.



Two wrestlers battle it out on the mat.

Wrestling was reinstated as an official sport at Serrano this year due to petitions and requests by the male students. Ron Hoberg, who took charge of organizing the students efforts, was chiefly responsible for giving the students this opportunity. Coach Piercy advised both the frosh-soph and varsity teams after school in the cafeteria each day. Workouts consisted of several wild exercises, including the indian run and bear crawl. The lowest weight on the team was a mere 97 pounds and the heavy weight of the year registered in at a big one hundred and ninety-one pounds.

Two tournaments were held this year at Big Bear and Bloomington Christian, where the boys placed sixth out of eleven schools, some of them in the 2A catergory. The wrestlers took the third place trophy in the De Anza league with four boys — Ron Field, Kevin Baughman, Paul Franzen, and Chris Sanders — going on to compete in the CIF finals at Azusa.

Some team members talk before their game.

With strong arms for catching and throwing, strong legs for running, skillful eyes, and the teams "positive attitude" propelled them through the season. The temperature and fast rate of sunset often awed our players; however, nature's no challenge for the super Serrano baseball players.

The coach of Junior-Varsity baseball was Coach Ries. The team agrees that Coach Ries was a great help in making the season the best that it could be. Baseball can be a bit frightening and overwhelming with the thought of a speeding ball flying close at speeds of 50 mph or faster. But this thought doesn't have the slightest affect on our fearless players who only have one thing on their minds — winning. Although winning isn't everything, it was enough to compel our players to put forth top effort and take the slim chance of loosing. The competition was rough, it usually is, so that meant our team had to try all the harder. Practice makes perfect. So that means the players on our team were pretty much as close as you can get.

Serrano Sluggers!

One, two, three strikes you're out! Varsity baseball for the year of 85-86 was excellent. Although the season started out pretty slow, the "Reggie Jackson's" of Serrano High batted their way through the season. It wasn't easy; but the superb spirit of our team members made the season great.

The discomfort of the weather often hampered the team members who tried their best to keep warm.

Winning the scrimmage game at the beginning of the season tipped Coach Wieberg off to the ability of the team and he made use of this to bring out our athletes' capabilities. Our team's speed was put to use in stealing bases which came in handy. Coach Wieberg, who has had his fair share of experience in baseball, taught his players everything he could about the game and many little tricks of the trade. The Serrano team finished the season with high spirits.

The golf team loads up the bags as they get ready for the journey to Spring Valley Lake Country Club.

Questions most asked of the Serrano golfers are where and who do you play. Practices and home matches were played at Spring Valley Lake Country Club in Victorville. Who? Serrano students do not realize that golf is a regular part of most schools athletic curriculum. There are six of the eight DeAnza league schools with golf programs, and numerous others in the high desert. On Tuesdays and Thursdays the team practiced at Spring Valley Lake and on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday they could be seen chipping golf balls out in front of the school.

A ladder is set up and it has each person's average score for the year. The top six golfers compete in each match. In scoring for the match, the worst score is thrown out and the other five totaled for a final score. During this golf season, returning letterman and all-league golfer Doug Mills was consistently on top of the ladder with his low average. To earn a letter in golf you must participate in one-third of the matches, which is six.

Kevin Baughman is ready to grasp the baton from Craig Thornhill.

This year's track team has been quoted as being the "best team ever." Noted for their tremendous determination to win, it was not easy though, the members practiced rigorously after school to enhance their natural abilities.

Even though track is considered as being an individual sport, this year's team had nothing but support and encouragement for each other.

As a whole, this team was skillful and successful in total victories, but individuals were sure to stand out. Melaine Laich, a freshmen, began her first year of track wonderfully competing in the "sprints," and ended the season with the same great effect. Two of the varsity members, John Peacock, senior, and Ed Broderick, sophomore, excelled in each of their events. Competing in the sprints, they did exceptionally well. Peacock also did well in the field events. These were a few of the outstanding team members. Everyone on the team had potential, therefore, striving hard and doing well was the overall attitude of every athlete.

Serrano participated in two invitationals this year, one at Beaumont and the other at Dana Hills. Serrano also hosted the Serrano Relays in April. This was run on a relay format; in each event three people did their things and the total of all the points formed a combined score. This event relay was a fine example of the teamwork of Serrano.

Laurie,
A Trip to New York!
You lucky dog. Shannon,
Kris and I will be going
To New York in August.
You have shown a great deal of improvement
This year. '86 your pleasant attitude has helped to make 5th
period a bearable class

This Poem is to Tell You how we really Feel,
the work was Hard and very REAL.
It took Some Skill and A lot of THOUGHT at Times battles WERE Almost fought.
Under the leadership OF Advisor Joan Carter
We struggled with layouts That seemed to get harder.
After all the deadlines we were Slow in completing we'd liKE tO ThaNk Our Rep., Mr. tOm Imming.
